REGENERATION

St James' Boulevard

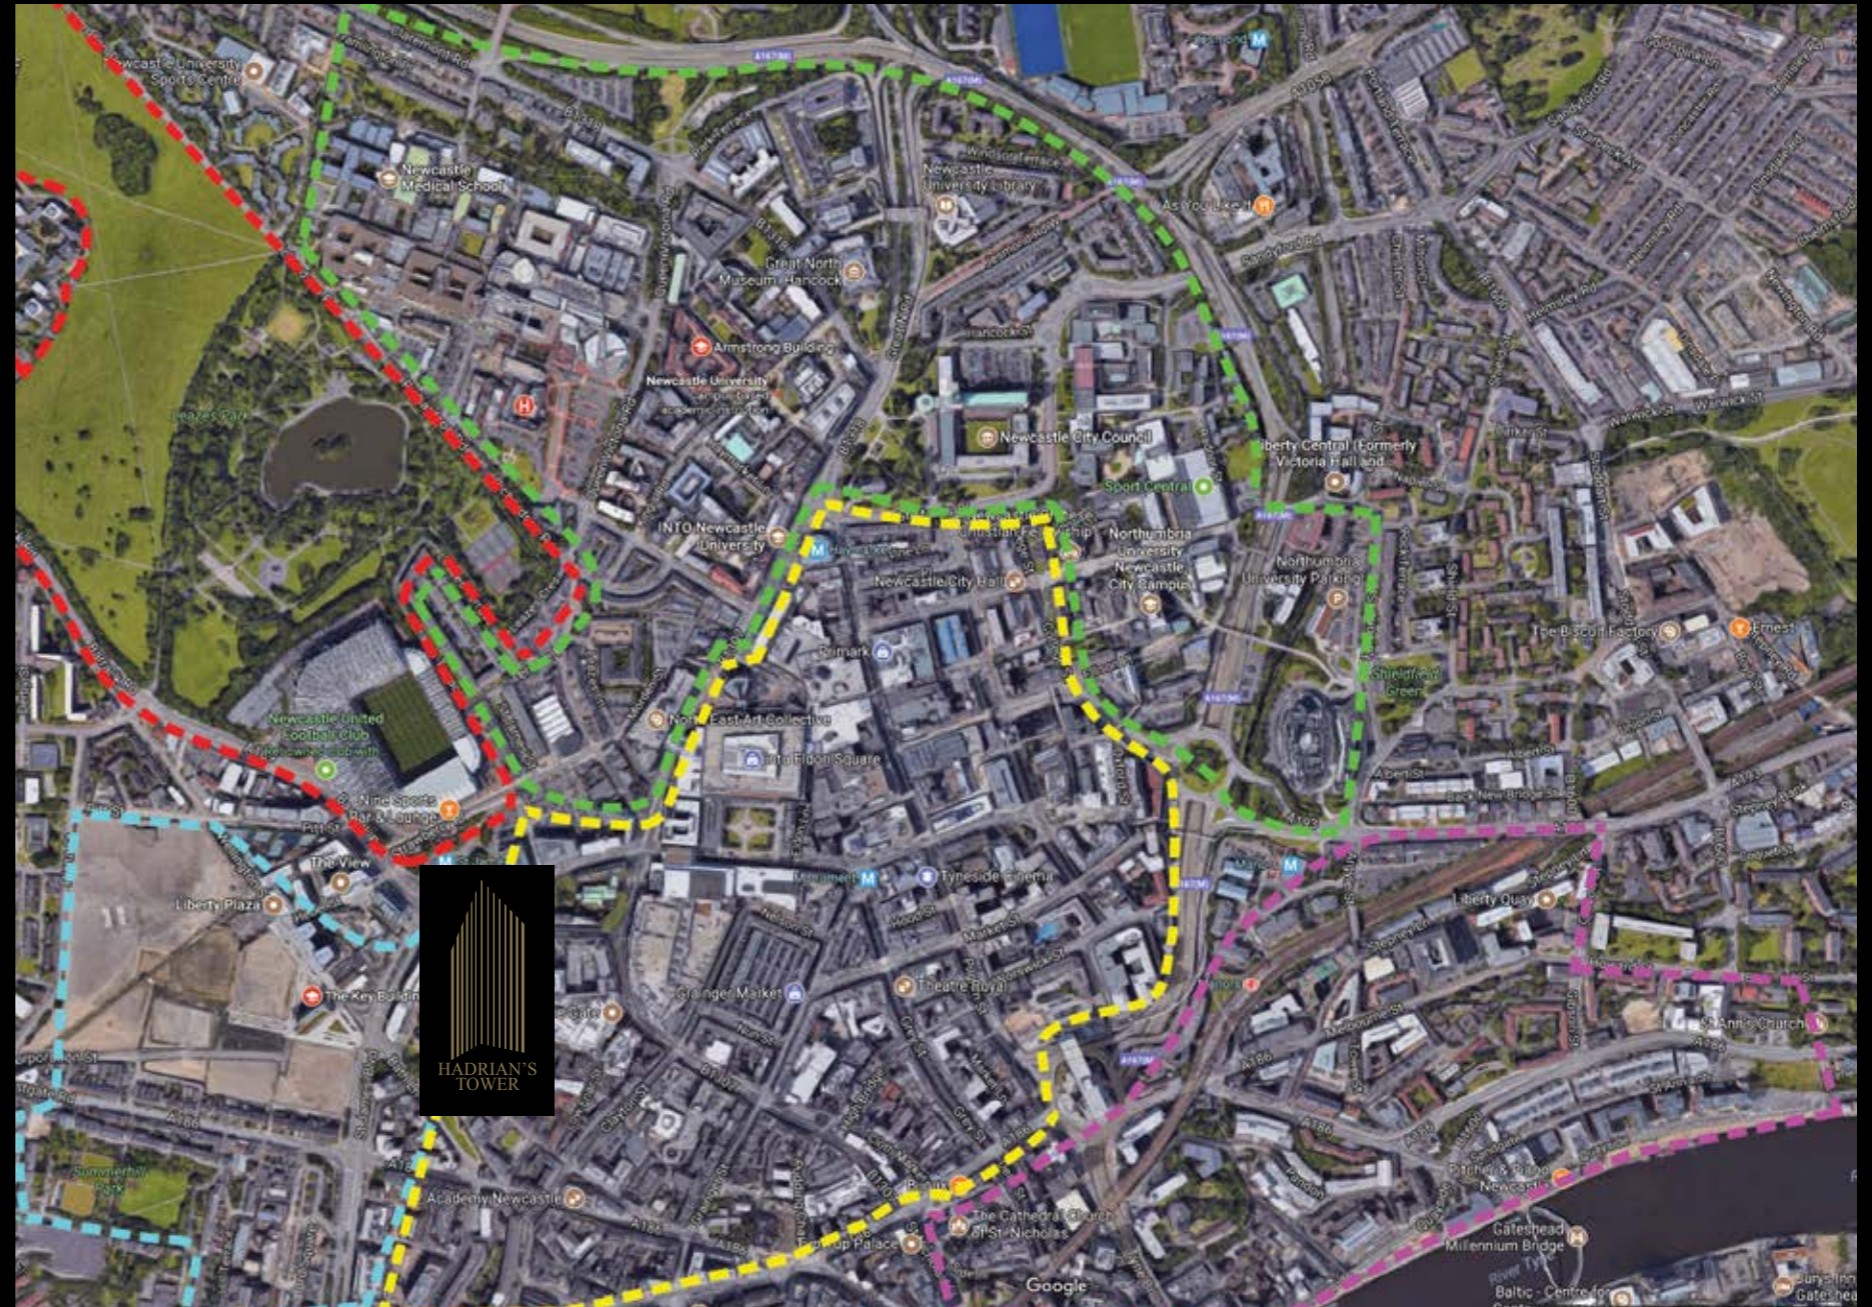

St James' Boulevard was commenced as a regeneration corridor in the late 1990s. The corridor was completed by 2010 and includes the construction and completion of a 12 storey car-park, a hotel (Waterloo Square), residential/commercial accommodation (Citygate) and leisure facility (Dance City).

The new corridor extended the gateway to the City out from its old City Wall line and land-locked the retail zone.

The only site that remains undeveloped along the City side of St James' Boulevard is the Rutherford Street site.

Newcastle Helix

Adjacent to the Rutherford Street site, The Helix will see hundreds of researchers, businesses and progressive homeowners living and working side-by-side, along with great food, drink and entertainment venues and three beautiful new public spaces. But it's so much more than a collection of cutting-edge buildings. It's a 24-acre testbed and collaborative ecosystem for public and private bodies that's unlike anything else in the UK.

- Green - University Estates, student residences, Hospital and Civic Centre. Locked in by central motorway and Retail City Centre.
- Yellow - Retail City Centre, including Intu Shopping Centre (Eldon Square). Locked-in by Universities, central motorway and St James' / Leazes Park.
- Red - St James' Park , including Leazes Park. Regeneration of St James' Park, completed in the late 1990s, provided a new skyline for the adjacent zones and locks value into the City
- Blue - Newcastle Helix. A mixed use site with Grade A office accommodation, space for SMEs, two National Innovation Centres and much more.
- Purple - Quayside office and leisure areas, developed during the 1980s, 1990s and 2000s. Regeneration is now complete and has spread to the Gateshead side of the river.

REGENERATION

Newcastle University, Newcastle City Council and Legal & General are working together to develop Newcastle Helix. The project is worth £350m and will convert the 24 acre site to a hub of cutting-edge buildings, grade A office accommodation, research, innovation and homes unlike anything else in the UK.

Hadrian's Tower is located between Newcastle Helix and the City Centre on St James' Boulevard.

There are two buildings completed on site already. The Core is home to knowledge-based, research-led companies working in cloud computing, energy, big data and more. Newcastle University's award winning Urban Sciences Building opened in 2017 and is home to the School of Computing, the National Centre for Energy Systems Integration and more.

Construction is underway on four more buildings. The Lumen is a landmark building that will bring more than 100,000 sqft of Grade A office accommodation to the city centre. The Biosphere provides laboratory and office space for start-ups and SMEs from the Life Sciences sector. The National Innovation Centre for Data and National Innovation Centre for Ageing will move in to a new £50m building on site, and Newcastle University's Learning & Teaching Centre on the site will provide world class facilities for students and conferencing.
